Lawyers and citizens alike regarded it all as a great bluff. The Mayor's dilator that care subjected him to but adverse criticism that as soon as a reached his office this morning he surted to do something.

A messenger was at once sent to Corporation Counsel Almet F. Jenks, and the two were soon in close confab. Then a stenographer was called in, and the task of preparing an affidavit begun. In a few minutes the affidavit was thrown aside for the time being, and Mr. Ridgway, "suppose I had advised to dismiss the indict one or more of the Aldermen, and that the case ultimately came before Judge Moore. The Corporation Counsel then walked back to the District-Attorney's office where he gave notice of the intended ap plication. He then returned to the avor's office and the preparation of e affidavit was resumed.

Between District-Attorney James W dgway, of Kings County, and Districttorney De Lancey Nicoll, of New York here seems to be a wide difference of inion as to the rights and duties of Frand Jurors. However honest the may be, he presents now the ppearance of standing between the peo-le and the Aldermen and Mayor, whom e Grand Jury said ought to have been ndicted, shielding them, as it were, from law which he was elected to prose

There is much similarity between the There is much similarity between the acts of the thirteen Brooklyn Aldermen and the giving away of the Broadway Railroad franchise by the Boodle Board of this city in 1884. In this latter case indictments were found and convictions obtained, but there the charge of bribery was openly made and proven. That charge has not yet been made in connection with the Brooklyn cases.

Mr. Nicoll, who as assistant to the then District-Attorney Martine, prosecuted the Aldermanic boodle cases, and consequently is thoroughly posted upon the laws bearing on the subject, was laked this morning by an "Evening World" reporter for his interpretation It seems that there has been more or less ill-feeling between the two women for some time, and yesterday they had a wordy wrangle.

Later in the day, Mrs. Haeffner met Willie Domroe, sky years old, on the sidewalk in front of her residence, and after knocking him down, kicked and beak him. To-day when the little fellow appeared in court he had a long cut across his right cheek, and his left ear was also damaged.

couted the Aidermanic boodle cases, and consequently is thoroughly posted upon the law bearing on the subject, was sked this morning by an "Evening World" reporter for his interpretation of the law concerning the rights of brand Jurors to indict for misdemenaor, and he said:

"So far as this city is concerned, the Grand Jury has a perfect right to indict for misdemeanors, and they do so day after day. I am not certain whether it is the same in Brooklyn or not, but I imagine it is. If not it certainly ought to be, otherwise it would be an outrage on the administration of justice. An attempt was made in the Tweed case to claim that the Grand Jury had no jurisdiction, and that all misdemeanors should be dealt with by Police Justices, but the courts laughed at him. "It would scarcely be proper for me to pass upon the contentions set up by Mr. Ridgway, All I know is that the Grand Jury has full power to act in this country at least. As to his contention that he must be present at all times in the Grand Jury room, I will only say that here we claim the right to enter the Grand Jury room and examine witnesses. Even that point, however, has cever been tested here, as we never have any friction and do not intend to."

city government, are asking what does Mr. Ridgway propose to do about the frauds, anyhow?

Even supposing that his contention is right, and that the police justices have exclusive jurisdiction, everybody wants to know why he does not have the alleged offenders arraigned even at the bar of a police court.

None knows better than he the nature of the evidence submitted to the Grand Jurors. His representative was present, and a full copy of the evidence taken is at present in his hands.

Or if he does not want to bring the alleged offenders into a police court, why it is asked, does he not bring the matter before the present Grand Jury and have indictments found for conspiracy?

There certainly appears to be material enough to warrant such proceedings, but instead of doing so he says in effect that the case is closed. In the meanime there will be more franchises to give away, and the Aldermen, secure in the friendship of their District-Attorney, will doubtless make the most of their opportunities.

District-Attorney Ridgway was so surprised at Mr. Gaynor's statement that the Grand Jury had found indictments for misdemeanor in the Rosenberg and Cooper cases, that he at once sent for the papers. These he examined carefully, and then said that Mr. Gaynor evidently did not understand the matter. "These very cases." he said, "bear out my contention that police justices have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of misdemeanor, because you will see by the papers that complaint was first made to a police justice, and it was only on the application of defendants counsel that the cases were taken out of the jurisdiction of the police court and transferred to the Court of Sessions.
